A MODEST CLAIM.

the Lost Valles That Suddenly Became

Not long ago a traveling man put his seon a baggage truck on an Indianlia, Decatur & Western station while went to buy a ticket and when he exturned the value was gone. Some es of the company Superintendent yd told him to make an itemized ment of the contents of the value, and this was done. That statement was, in the language of Mr. Boyd, "a bisy." Cuff buttons worth twelve dolers a pair; collar buttons at four dolh, and among other things a suit of clothes that he said his wife had sent him from New York and which he had never worn. The entire bill was for one hundred and forty dollars, and though the company believed it was being imposed upon the account was sworn to and it was in for the payment. ir. Boyd delayed matters as long as cosible in hopes of some clew, and he hinks himself lucky that he did. One may the vallee was frond in a ravine or the station, where it had been own by the thieves, and Superin-ident Boyd made an examination of tents. He says the cuff buttons of at twelve dollars could be bought where for fifty cents a pair. The dollar collar buttons were common Mairs that sell at "two for five," the new suit of clothes was not at all. Instead was a letter writby the man's wife in which she reby the man's wife in which she rebed that she could not send him his suit because the tailor had not finit but she would send it in ten

A Summer of Activity Among Educators.

BRAINWORKERS MOVE.

Astonishing Advance of the Past Ton Years-The West Has Done Wonders and so Has the South.

The season for summer conventions has fairly set in, and a bare list of the important gatherings of this year would fill half a column. The political con-ventions are known and read of all. men, and those of the various secret, social and benevolent orders are nearly as well advertised, but in gatherings to discuss educational matters the summer of 1892 will outdo all summers that have gone before it.

It seems but a few years ago that a state teachers' convention was a notable event, and even a county convention was organized with difficulty. But already an association embracing but one section of the states attracts the attention of the world, while the National Educational association brings together a larger gathering of intellectual men and women than any other organization. Twenty years ago it was a small and obscure body. For a few years past its meetings have been attended by from 10,000 to 15,000 people, and this year it is expected that at least 20,000 will

The progress of education in the newer sections may be illustrated by taking two or three sample states. As late as 1850 Indiana had no general school system. The percentage of native illiteracy was such as to make the state a byword, and in a few sections the condition was such as is described and not very greatly exaggerated in Dr. Eggleston's novels. In 1860 the school system of that state was among the best in the world. A few years later it received the honor of being recommended as a model for the newer

> Men yet in middle life can remember when the Universities of Michigan and Wisconsin were feeble and struggling institutions, and now Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas have far more flourishing institutions than Michigan had in 1860. California is organizing one on a scale which excites the wonder of the world. All the new states have better school systems than any state had forty years ago, and even Utah is able to boast of some native born scholars. The president of the National Educational association, which meets at Saratoga on July 12, is Dr. E. H. Cook, at present superintendent of the public schools of Flushing, N. Y. He is a graduate of Bowdoin college, one of the ditors of The Educational Review, and has been president of the state associations of both New York and New Jersey, besides holding other places of trust and honor in his profession. He thinks the past year has witnessed greater progress in American educational fields than any previous year, and he and his associates have arranged the work for this year's convention with special reference to the vital issues of

The complete figures of the census of 1800 are not yet available, but there is one department in which the facts already given out are such as to excite general astonishment and in devout minds an emotion of prayerful gratitude. Only thirty years ago it was a misdemeanor in many southern states to teach a colored person to read; today there are over 1,100,000 colored children in the common schools of the south, and several thousand colored students in select schools and colleges, and the single state of Georgia has within ten years educated more colored people than all the Christian missions in all the world nad done in all previous time.

These facts and many more of equal interest will be discussed at the meeting of the Southern Educational association at Atlanta on July 16. The American Institute of Instruction will meet at Narragansett Pier, R. I. on the same day and many other educational bodies will follow soon after. The last named institute is said to be the oldest organization of teachers in the world, and is made up chiefly of New England educators.

"BRIGHT'S DISEASE." This Dread Disease is Due to Catarrh of the Kidneys.

Pain in the back and loins, restlessness, flasnes of heat, disturbance of the stomach, loss of appetite and bectic fever are the most prominent symptoms in the first stages of Bright's disease. In the later stages of the disease there is puffness under the eyes,
swelling of the feet, bloody urine,
dropsy, convulsions and great weakness.

At the appearance of the first symp tom Pe-ru-na should be taken in table-spoonful doses six times each day; or, if more convenient, two tablespoonfuls three times each day before each meal. three times each day before each meal. This remedy strikes at once at the very root of the diseas. It at once relieves the congested kidneys of their stagnant blood, preventing the escape of serum from the blood. Pe-ru-na stimulates the kidneys to excrete from the blood the accumulating poison, and thus prevents the convulsions which are sure to follow if the poisons are allowed to remain. It gives great vigor to the heart's action and digestive system, both of which are apt to fail raptem, toth of which are apt to fail rapidly in this disease. Pe-ru-na is just as reliable in cases of chronic "Bright's disease" as in the acute. No matter how long it has run, or to what ex-tremity the patient may be reduced, there is always hope in Pe-ru-na.
